Sir:

Enclosed herewith, please find Form PTO-1449 (Modified) pertaining to the above-identified application. A copy of the publication listed thereon (Reference AX) is enclosed.

This Sixth Information Disclosure Statement ("IDS") supplements the Fifth Information Disclosure Statement filed on October 21, 2004, and is submitted to provide further evidence of the patentable nature of the claimed invention.

The December 2005, issue of Men's Health, containing an article entitled, "The Greatest Medical Revolution of the Century is about to Begin" (Reference AX) relates to previously submitted 2003 and 2005 Circulation publications, which describe clinical research performed by the Texas Heart Institute at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, Houston, Texas. The reported information is based on an interview with Emerson Perin, M.D., Ph.D., and director of new interventional cardiovascular technology at the institute. Dr. Perin, when describing using stem cell therapy for treating heart disease, is quoted as stating, "It's like Miracle-Gro for your heart." The author describes the procedure of injecting autologous bone marrow stem cells by catheter into the patient's heart as "astonishingly easy." This submission is consistent with the expert evidence proffered by Drs. Heuser and Lorincz and supports Applicant's arguments that one skilled in the medical arts would have to resort to nothing more than routine experimentation to practice the described and claimed invention. Such submission further evinces the novel/pioneering nature of applicant's invention which uses old materials, old apparatus and old and well known methods to achieve a truly novel and miraculous result.

This IDS is being submitted in an effort to reduce the number of issues in the instant application and thereby expedite the prosecution thereof.

Applicant believes that no fee is due because neither Applicant nor Applicant's attorney were aware of such publication more than three (3) months prior to this submission. A certification including such facts is enclosed.

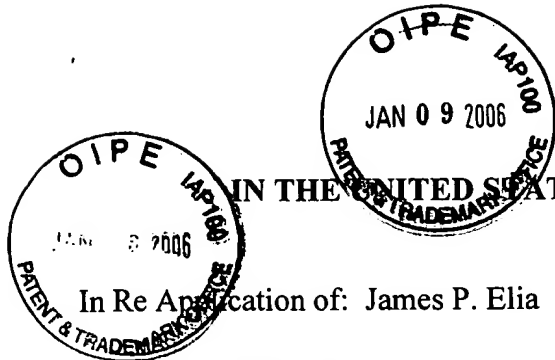

Respectfully submitted,

Date: January 5, 2006
